

George Lepp Outdoor and Nature Photographer, Teacher, and Author

George D. Lepp is one of North America's best-known contemporary outdoor and nature photographers, and a leader in the rapidly advancing field of digital imaging. He is the author of many books and the field editor of both PC Photo and Outdoor Photographer magazine, where his "Tech Tips" column is widely read. He was chosen by Canon USA as one of the first members of its Explorers of Light and Printmasters programs, which feature the industry's most influential photographers. A popular lecturer, he is a continuing member of the faculty of Photoshop World, a founding board member of the North American Nature Photographers' Association, and winner of many awards for his work, including the prestigious Progress Award, the highest given by the Photographic Society of America. George lives in Colorado Springs, Colorado and can be contacted through his website, www.geolepp.com.

March 3, 2007 in Scottsdale, AZ
EVENT PROGRAM

George will be presenting information on outdoor photography as well as giving tips regarding digital photography. He will cover such things as macro, wildlife, and landscape photography with new techniques like Helicon Focus, HDR, contrast control, and of course panoramas.

He'll have some new information on programs for taking care of noise in a digital image and interpolating images for very large prints. He will also have print examples to show what the new Canon large format printers can do.
